

I'd like to request that that selectboard look into the legality of restricting new mines in Alna. There did not seem to be clarity around this in the most recent meeting.

I'd also appreciate an emphasis on how the new ordinance would further dictate Crooker's operations, making the regulation of non-commercial existing mines secondary. The latter appeared to be the most contentious during the blasting ordinance process, as well as far less impactful than Crooker in the long run.

Thanks,
